FORTS RECENTLY BROKEN

GENEVA, July 25.—(P)—A new note again requesting urgently a session of the council of the League of Nations was received from Ethiopia today a short time after the publication of an Italian note blaming Ethiopia for the breakdown in conciliation efforts.

The Ethiopian note, the text of which was not made public immediately by the league, protests again against Italy's action and declared that the League of Nations council should discuss the Italo-Ethiopian dispute in its entirety.

In her own note, Italy said she was led to communicate with the league because the time limit expired today for the work of the four conciliators who recently met at Scheveningen, the Netherlands.

Premier Mussolini's government insisted that conciliation and arbitration was unacceptable, there sole object being the fact that the agents of the Ethiopian government put forth claims to be discussed at Scheveningen on questions excluded by the arbitration agreement.

(The Ethiopian member of the commission was reported to have asked that the commission discuss the question of delimitation of the boundaries between Ethiopia and the Italian colonies in Africa; the Italians insisted that only border incidents be considered by the conciliation body.)

OME, July 25.—(P)—An authoritative source said today that Italy's minister in Addis Ababa has made representations to Emperor Haile Selassie stating Italy is willing to resume the arbitration.

Three Young Men Killed; Youth And
Girl Are Injured

HOUSTON, July 25.—(P)—Three young men were killed and a fourth youth and a girl were injured today when two cars collided a short distance out on the Beaumont road.

Only one of the dead men had been identified. He is Lloyd Smith, 20, of Liberty. Another is a man about 23, believed to be from Alexandria, La. The third is a youth about 18, picked up at Dayton. He was believed from Lake Charles, La.

The young woman, also unidentified and believed to be from Alexandria, was near death in a hospital here. The injured youth, J. D. Arnold, 18, of Liberty is in a local hospital.

All were riding in a car bearing Louisiana license No. 278-190.

A bus ticket from Alexandria to Houston was found in the girl's purse. A note was found which said: "Having a good time. Be seeing you soon. Met Dickey on the street by accident. There was no address on the note and there was no signature."

Negress Burned
To Death in Home
Wednesday Night

Liza Foreman, aged 71, negro, was burned to death in a fire of undetermined origin that severely damaged a residence at 918 South Beaton street about 10:20 Wednesday night. Loss on the house and contents was estimated at $750.

The alarm was turned in by neighbors of the colored couple, Britton and Liza Foreman, aged negroes, but the blaze had gained such headway that firemen had to lay water lines before they could recover the body of the deceased.

As fire department officials reconstructed the occurrence, the aged negress had evidently been working in the kitchen while her husband had gone to church and had her clothing ignited by getting too near the stove. She was reported to have been partially blind. The kitchen stove had been knocked off its base and was red hot according to firemen, while the woman was found in an adjoining room. Principal fire damage occurred in the room where the negress was found.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(P)—A blast on the house floor against anti-religious activities in Germany, Rep. Dickstein (D-N.Y.) today called Adolf Hitler "this madman of Germany" and accused him of stooping "to cold-blooded murder."

Immediately Rep. Blanton (D-Texas) admonished that America should "mind its own business." He said that the state department was the only agency designated by the constitution "to handle our business with foreign countries," and that Dickstein had no authority to call Hitler a madman, even if it were justified.

Preliminary negotiations looking toward a reciprocal trade agreement between this country and Germany served to touch off Dickstein's attack.

Any such agreement, he said, should contain an "iron-bound provision" protecting the rights of American citizens in Germany, regardless of their religion or racial origin.

Dickstein also contended that the proposed pact should insist that the German government under take to prevent the sending of all kinds of Nazi propaganda into

FARMERS HARVESTING
LARGE FEED CROPS;
COTTON IS GROWINGAGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK
FOR NAVARRO COUNTY ONE OF BEST IN MANY YEARS

Farmers of Navarro county have been busy the past week or more harvesting a part of the best feed crop this county has raised in years. Various methods are being used to save the bumper crop. Some farmers are cutting the row crops with binders and will store it in barns or stacks with a waterproof covering of some nature. Others are harvesting the maize and hegari and storing it in piles. Some known instance, trench silo is being used. Sorghums, Sudan and other hay crops are being haled.

Local showers that have fallen in the past week have done no material damage. They have not been heavy enough or covered enough territory to do much damage to the feed crops.

Some fear has been expressed that a continuation of the showers might cause insects to damage the cotton crop. So far, however, very little damage has been done. There are a few army worms in some sections of the county but not in alarming numbers. There is also some boll weevil and other insects but no more than usual and they have been seriously handicapped by the hot weather.

The French government, I understand, interprets its obligation under the treaty in the same manner.

Dr. W. Martin, the new minister from Ethiopia, presented his credentials to King George today after going to the foreign office for conversations from which he emerged smiling but without comment.

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MATAMOROS, Tamaulipas, Mexico, July 25.—(P)—More than 1,000 peasants, many armed with thirty-thirty rifles, were encamped this afternoon at the city limits while their leaders conferred with Mayor Rafael Munguia C. and General Gabriel Cervera.

The peasants emphasized that they sought to get the mayor to resign without violence. They asked the military authorities to permit them to stage a peaceful demonstration downtown.

The general's reply to this request could not be learned at once, but it was believed he had refused it.

As leaders conferred, a military airplane arrived from Monterrey, and its officer pilot raced into the city to join the conference.

General Cervera issued a proclamation informing the people that he was prepared to enforce the laws and preserve order. The military was drawn up at the city hall, while customs officers, summoned here from their stations up and down the border, patrolled the remainder of the city.

Matamoros was under martial law, except in name.

BERLIN, July 25.—(P)—

The Nazis attacked today on three fronts—against the foreign press, against the Catholic press at home, and against the war veterans' organization, the steel helmets.

A large portion of Germany's press heaped scorn on foreign newspapers for alleged "slander, biased reporting and exaggeration" of the German government's anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic measures.

Catholic editors were worried as to how soon Max Amann, the president of the Reich press chamber and boss of the German publishing business, would strike against Catholic newspapers which he decides are not edited "in the national socialist spirit."

Political police dissolved the steel helmet units in western Mecklenburg at Parchim, Ludwigslust and Waren on the Oder.

The attack on the foreign press took the form mainly of pointing out that other nations had their own riots, lynchings, and such disorders and that therefore there was no cause for them to get unduly excited over disorders in Germany.

The Nazi party organ at Baden, "Fuehrer," appeared with a demand that Catholic newspapers be eliminated, as part of the

ALLEGED MYSTERY
PACKAGE BELIEVED
HAVE BEEN BOOKSHOUSE COMMITTEE DELVES
INTO OTHER ANGLES OF AL-LEGED UTILITIES LOBBY

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(P)—Testimony was received today by the senate lobby committee that mysterious newspaper-wrapped package—the center of a series of questions yesterday—might have been books on livestock.

That explanation was offered by John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light Company, who added that his eldest son, John, had given a box of cigars to Representative Paton (D-Tex.).

Joe A. Worsham, counsel for the power company, corroborated Carpenter's testimony about the books and the cigars.

Later Paton told reporters he was on record as long ago as last March against the provision in the utilities bill to abolish "unnecessary" holding companies and voted that way on the house roll call.

"My record is clear and open to inspection in my office for anyone any time," he added.

Meanwhile, the house rules committee investigating lobbying for and against the utilities bill received testimony from Hugh Macmillan, president of the American Federation of Utilities Investors, that the organization spent $60,000 in the last six months in the interest of the millions of investors it represents.

Of this amount, he said $25,000 was spent against the utilities bill and part of the remainder against the Tennessee Valley administration.

"I didn't give anybody a box of cigars, but my son said yesterday he gave Mr. Paton a couple of cigars," Carpenter said.

See GENE PATTON CIGARS.

He added that his son had told him yesterday about giving a box of cigars to Paton because he had invited him to go fishing.

At another time, Carpenter said, Paton brought two books on livestock to the hotel for Carpenter's son and took them out again wrapped in newspaper.

Carpenter said his son gave the box of cigars to Paton a couple of days before the Sunday before the house vote.

A man described previously by committee members as a "mystery witness" told the house group that he had been on parties attended by members of congress but denied that he had done any entertaining for them himself.

A. G. and E. COMPANY PAID

He was Bernard B. Robinson, president of the B. B. Robinson company, Chicago investment trust firm.

Chairman O'Connor said yesterday he would be called to tell the senate lobby committee that the Asociated Gas and Electric company footed $6,400 of his $7,285 Washington expenses from February to June, inclusive.

Paton voted for substituting the house bill, which did not contain the clause for abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies, for the senate bill which did contain that provision.

MATAMOROS

Tension in this border city was relieved when the politically embittered Agrarians, encamped in a threatening circle about Matamoros, failed to carry out their warning to storm the city yesterday afternoon unless administrative changes were made. Instead, the rebels began to drift away to their farms and ranches and federal troops, prepared to resist violence with bullets if necessary, found the situation eased, at least for the moment.

Disbandment of the rebels late yesterday eased a situation that had been tense in Matamoros for days, but Gov. Rafael Villarreal of Tamaulipas, subject of bitter peasant opposition which ousted one governor and threatened several city administrations, was reported still under fire.

Villarreal Is Confident. Although thousands of workers and peasants at Tampico, where Gov. Villarreal went last night to confer with Minister of the Interior Barros Gonzales, demanded his removal, Gov. Villarreal expressed belief that he would be able to "dominate the situation."

The Tampico municipal council also had asked that Villarreal be removed on the grounds it was unable to work with him.

President Cardenas sent word to Agrarian organizations which had complained against Villarreal and promised full investigation and urged them to avoid violence.

This action and disbandment of rebels at Matamoros was believed to have eased the tension of the entire uprising.

After two days outside the city during which time they threatened to use force in evicting Mayor Rafael Munguia C. of Matamoros and other city officials, the hostile Agrarians started disbanding after federal troops and city police blanketed the city administration building.

No Trouble Expected.

Many Agrarians said he did not expect further trouble.

If he refused to be intimidated and held to my authority and, upon being sponsored by federal forces, no further trouble was threatened," he said, adding that he had been advised by President Cardenas urging him to retain his control.

In addition to facing machine guns, the rebels were running short of food and apparently decided to await the outcome of the negotiations at Tampico.

The peasant move won approval in Mexico City when students celebrated the overthrow of Thomas Garrido Canabal, dictator of Tabasco state. Several thousand students hanged Garrido in effigy in token of the anti-church leader's downfall. Garrido's power was broken when President Cardenas intervened to remove his protege, Governor Miguel Lastra.

Tabasco was reported orderly after the state was placed under semi-military control.

New Tabasco Governor.

General Aureo Calles, who is no relation to Mexico's strong man, former president Plutarco Elias Calles, was sworn in as substitute governor of Tabasco and he said he planned to go there today.

Many Munguia said he received word from Minister of War General Andre Figueroa that Agrarians in Tamaulipas had taken the cities of Llera and Fuemez and forced resignations of officials but that federal forces had retaken the towns.

Reports from Mexico City sources said peasants had overthrown municipal councils in nearly a score of towns in the state of Tamaulipas and had forced 14 others to withdraw their recognition of Villarreal as governor.

This added strength to the belief that Villarreal's days were numbered, an opinion that came to the front when it was reported that Emilio Portes Gil, president of the national revolutionary (government) party, was backing the movement against the governor.

Nuevo Laredo Situation.

LAREDO, July 25.—(P)—Two city governments were functioning at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, today, one headed by the mayor and another by an alderman.

Mr. Herrera, the mayor, had two city councilmen in his group while Alderman Remigio Caso Rodriguez had five councilmen and the city secretary, B. Bazu.

The Rodriguez faction is supporting Governor Rafael Villarreal of the state of Tamaulipas, central figure in current Agrarian uprisings, while the Herrera group has opposed Villarreal.

Federal soldiers have prevented disorders and are policing the town.

The commission broke down recently in the Netherlands where its members, representing Italy and Ethiopia, were attempting to reach a basis for concluding their differences.

Conte Cinci was said to have asked the Ethiopian sovereign if he was willing for the commission to meet again, particularly for the purpose of appointing a fifth member to act as arbitrator.

However, the minister was reported to have made it plain that the commission, even in case an arbitrator were added, would have to limit itself to the discussion of incidents which have taken place on the frontier and could not include in the negotiations the question of frontiers themselves.

It was stated that no official answer had yet been received from Addis Ababa, but that it was known the emperor was loathe to revive the commission except on a basis of an all-embracing discussion which would include the question of delimitation of frontiers.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, July 25.—(P)—The Italian delegation, to be arranged for the transportation of 46 Italians out of the Ethiopian capital and ordered all Dodecanesian women and children to leave the country.

The Dodecanesians are native of the Aegean Islands over which Italy has sovereignty. There are about 400 of their women and children in the country. The legislation advised the Dodecanesian men to leave also, but it was said a considerable number intended to remain.

Asked why the committee had not included the increase in capital stock taxes and the new levy on incorporation dividends, the latter recommended by the President, Doughton told newspapermen:

"I'm not in favor of too many taxes."

Here are some figures to indicate how much of an inheritance would be taken by the government under the tentative schedule:

$80,000, tax $400; $100,000, tax $5,600; $500,000, tax $28,000; $1,000,000, tax $309,600; $2,000,000, tax $619,200; $5,000,000, tax $2,449,600; $10,000,000, tax $5,898,600.

Gifts would be taxed about three-fourths of that amount and would be subjected to the new levies for two reasons: To prevent evasion of inheritance taxes, and to bring in revenue promptly instead of only years after an individual had died and left a fortune.

Ten Years Allowed.

A provision also was inserted in the tentative bill, Doughton said, under which the collection of individual revenue could allow as much as 10 years for the settlement of an inheritance tax.

For the first 18 months, there would be no interest on deferred payments; for the next three years the interest would be three per cent; for all the time after that up to ten years, the interest would be six per cent.

Appraisals on all inheritances, Doughton added, would have to be completed within a year after death.

After the news was received Monday that the congress at Mexico City has ousted Governor Manuel Astra, Garrido's protege, General Henriquez visited both Garrido and Brito and told them he had orders from the federal government to repress all disorders.

As soon as Lastra was overthrown, the troops took possession of the government palace, the jail, and other public buildings and they still are guarding them.

The word of Henriquez and the appointment of General Aureo Calles as substitute governor of the state of Tabasco has been generally well received by the public.

Claimed Order Has Been Restored

MEXICO CITY, July 25.—(P)—Official reports from Tampico said today that order had been restored throughout the state of Tamaulipas and that the danger of a peon movement against Governor Rafael Villarreal developing into an armed uprising apparently had passed.

The governor conferred with three welfare groups last night with Barba Gonzales, minister of the interior, and while no statement was given out, it was said there was "a slight possibility of an arrangement by which Villarreal would continue in office" despite complaints against him.

Governor Villarreal repeated his flat statement: "I will not resign."

The minister of the interior held audiences with a number of delegations which presented complaints and charges against the governor and said he would proceed on his way in Tampico until Saturday, probably going at that time to Ciudad Victoria before returning to the capital to make his report.

Statement Issued.

After the democrats had met for more than two hours, Doughton issued a statement saying:

"We have tentatively agreed to have a surtax rate provision starting at $150,000 with graduated rates up to 75 per cent on incomes over $10,000,000.

"We expect to have a graduated corporation income tax under very narrow limits of graduation. We expect to impose a moderate excess-profits tax.

"We expect to have an inheritance tax graduated up to 75 per cent on inheritances over $10,000,000, with $50,000 exemption.

"We expect to have a gift tax at about three-fourths the rates of the inheritance tax."

He personally expressed the "guess" that the bill would raise in the neighborhood of $200,000,000 in new revenue.

The plan was to get the things agreed upon in bill form as soon as possible so it could be put before the full committee early next week for prompt approval.

May Be Ready Monday.

Doughton had told Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), chairman of the senate finance committee, that the tentative bill would be ready by Monday, but today there seemed doubt of that.

Asked why the committee had not included the increase in capital stock taxes and the new levy on incorporation dividends, the latter recommended by the President, Doughton told newspapermen:

Once Big-Time Rum Smuggler Is Shot to Death

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(P)—The "B-Men" known to the public as fighters of violent crime, were depicted today in a new role—that of watchdogs of the Treasury department.

Department officials said they had saved the government $2,248,000 in the past six months by revealing "frogs" by men who swore they suffered permanent injury from the World War in an attempt to collect from the government.

Two years ago, when the department of justice took over the work, the government was winning these cases, it was said.

When a "suspicious" claim for total disability remuneration comes in it is turned over to the agents for investigation.

Henderson county showed a gain of 207 farms and a gain of 120,000 acres.

Hill county showed a loss of 750 farms and a gain of 17,000 acres.

McLennan county showed a loss of 1,100 farms and a loss of 2,600 acres.

Cameron county showed a gain of over 3,000 farms and a gain of 260,000 acres.

Crane county showed a total of 147 farms in 1935 compared with 13 in 1930, with acreage almost doubled.

About 15 counties showed gains in value of farms and buildings during the past five years and a wide divergence was shown in the gains. Included in the list are Cochran, Crane, Crockett, Deaf Smith, Dimmit, Glasscock, Hardin, Hartley, Hidalgo, Leon, and Zapata counties. WOMAN SACRIFICED TO GIVE PLACE TO REMOVED JUDGE

VIRGIN ISLANDS CHARGES EVIDENTLY CLOSED AS HEARING SUSPENDED

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(P)—Attorney General Cummings was disclosed today to have asked and obtained the resignation of Dr. Amy N. Stannard from the United States board of parole in order to create a place for Judge T. Webb Wilson of Mississippi, whom President Roosevelt yesterday shifted from a post in the Virgin Islands.

Dr. Stannard came to Washington some time ago from San Francisco.

Judge Wilson, whose judicial actions in the Virgin Islands had been criticized by Secretary Ickes, was given a place on the parole board in a presidential move to end controversy over the Islands administration.

The senate territories committee, meanwhile, decided to suspend indefinitely public hearings in its investigation of the Virgin Islands administration.

At the same time Dr. Paul M. Pearson, foe of Judge Wilson, was removed as governor of the Islands and given a position in the housing division of PWA.

Asked to Resign.

Letters made public today showed that Dr. Stannard on July 1 submitted her resignation at Cummings' request "in order to create a vacancy on the board."

Prior to her appointment to the parole board, Dr. Stannard served as a psychiatrist at St. Elizabeth's hospital, government institution for the treatment of mental ailments for seven years.

The decision of the state territories committee to conduct no further public hearings on the Virgin Islands situation "for the time being" was announced by Chairman Tydell (D-Md.). He declined to explain the move but did assert that several telegrams of protest against the nomination of Lawrence W. Cramer as the Islands' new governor had been received from the islands. They purported to be from several groups.

He said the committee would not consider Cramer's nomination until it "disposed of the present inquiry."

It was reported the committee was determined not to proceed until it learned more definitely whether Cramer's appointment was intended to be permanent or a temporary solution of the dispute over the Islands administration.

NEGRO INDICTED IN ATTACK ON OFFICER IS PLACED IN JAIL

A negro, indicted as W. C. Bowers for assault with intent to murder and robbery with firearms, was arrested at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in Wichita Falls by Sheriff Rufus Pevhouse and was placed in the Navarro County jail at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The negro had been the object of an intensive search by local officers for several days since indictments were returned by the Navarro county grand jury as the result of the alleged attacking, disarming and shooting at Constable Leo Sands near Chaffield about 10 days ago when he was believed of his gun, was struck with a shotgun and his car fired into as he left the scene of attack.

Sheriff Pevhouse went to Wichita Falls Tuesday afternoon when he learned the wanted prisoner was reported en route there.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(P)—A remarkable comeback from 1934's disastrous drought was reported today by the AAA. Officials said the nation practically has recovered from the calamity.

A year ago today, the headlines were telling of scorched plains, damaged crops, government purchasing of cattle to prevent them from starving. Now conditions are much better.

Thousands of families who depended on government relief for the necessities of life have returned to a self-sustaining basis, officials said. In addition, the resettlement administration reports that 260,155 farm families have been taken off the relief rolls to be placed in the rural rehabilitation classification.

On Feb. 1, 1935, the government's claim showed a drought covering 1,450 counties in 25 states. Now there are 260 counties in five states—southwestern Kansas, eastern Colorado, northwestern Oklahoma, The Texas Panhandle and New Mexico.

From June 1, 1934, when the cattle buying program of the AAA was begun as a relief measure for drought areas, until February 1, 1935, the end of the program, a government bought 718,000 head of cattle from 66,000 farms in 24 states. Cost of the cattle was $11,451,000, or $1340 per head.

Those found edible were killed and canned with the exception of about 1,000,000 head still held in pastures and ranges.

In addition, the government bought 3,808,700 sheep in the drought sections, for a total cost of $7,219,152.

Abundant rains in the spring, good growing conditions, and feeding for ample food and feed crops this year, have resulted in predictions by AAA officials that there will be no danger of a food or feed shortage this fall and winter, they say the agricultural sections rapidly are approaching normal conditions.

OMAHA, Neb., July 23.—(P)—A "back to the farm" movement which has brought increases in farm land prices of from 15 to 33 per cent over a year ago, today gave indication that prosperity is finding its way back to the Midwest.

Real estate prices, always one of the first signs of recovery, are booming throughout Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming, officials of the Federal Land Bank here reported today.

The land market is best, they said in Northern Iowa, Southeastern South Dakota and Eastern Nebraska. Northern Iowa land is up from 25 to 35 per cent over a year ago.

More than 50 per cent of the land buyers, the bank's real estate agents reported, are farmers desiring homes.

REMARKABLE COMEBACK FROM 1934 DROUGHT CONFOUNDING TO AAA DISASTER PROPHETS

TEXAS POWER AND LIGHT HEAD TELLS OF UTILITY ACTS

JOHN W. CARPENTER SAYS
TEXAS CONCERN SPENT
$33,777 IN OPPOSING BILL

WASHINGTON, July 24. (P)—Expenditure of $33,777 by the Texas Power and Light Co., to oppose the administration utility holding company bill was described to the senate lobby committee today by John W. Carpenter, president of the company, a subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share company.

The money was spent for trips to Washington, telegrams to congressmen, and $192 to a magazine editor in Texas for speaking on the radio against the bill, it was testified.

All the money, Carpenter said, was paid out of the company's operating expenses, and thus was charged against the consumers of electricity.

The gray-haired Texas power head denied he had given anything to the congressmen.

"The $192 he paid went to Peter Molynaux, editor of the magazine 'Texas Weekly.'

He denied the company had made any "contributions" to the Texas Weekly, but said the company subscribed for and advertised in the magazine.

The $192 and expenses of the Washington trips were charged against the operating expenses of the T. P. and L. company, Carpenter said.

Black said that in this way the expense was eventually charged against consumers of electricity.

Just as the hearing opened, Chairman Black disclosed that committee investigators had been delayed for a week in obtaining the records of the Edison Electric Institute.

Carpenter testified his company had spent $3,268 for telegrams to congressmen against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

"I suggested to the employees to talk to customers, friends and security holders and tell them the bad effect of the bill on the company and the state of Texas," he said.

He denied he had instructed the employees to pay for the telegrams.

The cost of the telegrams also was marked up against operating expenses, the witness said.

Black asked Carpenter to furnish the committee the total paid by the company and its associates to Molynaux over five years.

Questioned in detail about his Washington expenses, Carpenter said he spent $12,232 preparing and presenting his statement to the house interstate commerce committee.

His salary, he said, was in addition. He testified he received $20,000 a year.

In addition to $1,467 on the first trip here, Carpenter said a second trip cost $1,935 for him and his aides.

Lobby Investigators Delayed in Duties

WASHINGTON, July 24. (P)—Chairman Black of the senate lobby committee disclosed today that committee investigators had been delayed for a week in obtaining the records of the Edison Electric Institute.

Commenting on the institute's published statement today of its expenditures to oppose legislation, Black said the committee agents had been there eight days "and finally acquired access to the books two or three days ago."

Black also announced the committee had received an answer to its questionnaire from the Pacific Lighting Corporation of San Francisco, which was "incomplete and wholly lacked the information asked."

He suggested the committee would send investigators to check up every case where questionnaires were not properly answered.

The Edison Institute said it had spent $266,749 in opposing legislation it regarded as harmful to the industry, including the holding company bill.

Black's statement was made, as he called John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light Company, to the stand.

Carpenter explained his company had been a unit of the Electric Bond and Share system for about 20 years.

Asked by Black if that was controlled by J. P. Morgan and Co., Carpenter said he did not know.

Carpenter, gray-haired man, said he also was vice-president of the Electric Service Company, president of the New Mexico Electric Service Company; president of the Texas Public Utilities Corporation; chairman of the Gulf States Security Life Insurance Company; president of the Dallas Railway and Terminal Company, and director of the St. Louis and S. W. Railway Company and the Mercantile National Bank of Dallas.

Investigation "Written Up."

He agreed under Black's questioning that the Federal Trade Commission had found an investment of $2,390,000 in the Texas Light and Power Company had been "written up" by Electric Bond and Share to $10,550,000.

"Have regular dividends been paid on that $10,550,000?" Black asked.

"Some dividends have been paid, but not continuously," Carpenter replied.

He said he owned 40 shares of common stock of the Texas Power and Light Company, which he declared he may have obtained at a "slight concession."

"We were interested in having our employees take an interest in ownership of the company," he said. "I don't remember whether this company ever failed to pay dividends, although I think the common stock dividend was omitted one year."

A Black sought to learn details of the financial set-up of the T. P. and L. and the American Power and Light Company, Carpenter replied frequently, "I'll have to refer to the records."

The witness testified he had an agreement to sell his 40 shares in T. P. and L. back to the Electric Bond and Share when he ceased to be president.

Lowering his voice, Black asked Carpenter whether he had any correspondence relating to the administration holding company bill.

"Very little correspondence," Carpenter replied. He handed Black a file several inches thick.

Carpenter said he had come to Washington in February in connection with the utilities bill, accompanied by W. W. Lynch, one of his assistants.

He said he also suggested that Joe A. Worsham, vice-president, come here.

Expenses of the delegation, he continued, were charged against the operating expenses of the T. P. and L. He said the amount was $1,467.

The Texan said he had talked to Chairman Rayburn, of the house interstate commerce committee today by John W. Carpenter, president of the company, a subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share company.

The money was spent for trips to Washington, telegrams to congressmen, and $192 to a magazine editor in Texas for speaking on the radio against the bill, it was testified.

Carpenter explained his company had been a unit of the Electric Bond and Share system for about 20 years.

Asked by Black if that was controlled by J. P. Morgan and Co., Carpenter said he did not know.

Carpenter, gray-haired man, said he also was vice-president of the Electric Service Company, president of the New Mexico Electric Service Company; president of the Texas Public Utilities Corporation; chairman of the Gulf States Security Life Insurance Company; president of the Dallas Railway and Terminal Company, and director of the St. Louis and S. W. Railway Company and the Mercantile National Bank of Dallas.

Investigation "Written Up."

He agreed under Black's questioning that the Federal Trade Commission had found an investment of $2,390,000 in the Texas Light and Power Company had been "written up" by Electric Bond and Share to $10,550,000.

"Have regular dividends been paid on that $10,550,000?" Black asked.

"Some dividends have been paid, but not continuously," Carpenter replied.

He said he owned 40 shares of common stock of the Texas Power and Light Company, which he declared he may have obtained at a "slight concession."

Lowering his voice, Black asked Carpenter whether he had any correspondence relating to the administration holding company bill.

"Very little correspondence," Carpenter replied. He handed Black a file several inches thick.

Carpenter said he had come to Washington in February in connection with the utilities bill, accompanied by W. W. Lynch, one of his assistants.

He said he also suggested that Joe A. Worsham, vice-president, come here.

Expenses of the delegation, he continued, were charged against the operating expenses of the T. P. and L. He said the amount was $1,467.

The Texan said he had talked to Chairman Rayburn, of the house interstate commerce committee today by John W. Carpenter, president of the company, a subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share company.

The money was spent for trips to Washington, telegrams to congressmen, and $192 to a magazine editor in Texas for speaking on the radio against the bill, it was testified.

All the money, Carpenter said, was paid out of the company's operating expenses, and thus was charged against the consumers of electricity.

The gray-haired Texas power head denied he had given anything to the congressmen.

"The $192 he paid went to Peter Molynaux, editor of the magazine 'Texas Weekly.'

He denied the company had made any "contributions" to the Texas Weekly, but said the company subscribed for and advertised in the magazine.

The $192 and expenses of the Washington trips were charged against the operating expenses of the T. P. and L. company, Carpenter said.

Black said that in this way the expense was eventually charged against consumers of electricity.

Just as the hearing opened, Chairman Black disclosed that committee investigators had been delayed for a week in obtaining the records of the Edison Electric Institute.

Carpenter testified his company had spent $3,268 for telegrams to congressmen against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

"I suggested to the employees to talk to customers, friends and security holders and tell them the bad effect of the bill on the company and the state of Texas," he said.

He denied he had instructed the employees to pay for the telegrams.

The cost of the telegrams also was marked up against operating expenses, the witness said.

Black asked Carpenter to furnish the committee the total paid by the company and its associates to Molynaux over five years.

Questioned in detail about his Washington expenses, Carpenter said he spent $12,232 preparing and presenting his statement to the house interstate commerce committee.

His salary, he said, was in addition. He testified he received $20,000 a year.

In addition to $1,467 on the first trip here, Carpenter said a second trip cost $1,935 for him and his aides.

Lobby Investigators Delayed in Duties

WASHINGTON, July 24. (P)—Chairman Black of the senate lobby committee disclosed today that committee investigators had been delayed for a week in obtaining the records of the Edison Electric Institute.

Commenting on the institute's published statement today of its expenditures to oppose legislation, Black said the committee agents had been there eight days "and finally acquired access to the books two or three days ago."

Black also announced the committee had received an answer to its questionnaire from the Pacific Lighting Corporation of San Francisco, which was "incomplete and wholly lacked the information asked."

He suggested the committee would send investigators to check up every case where questionnaires were not properly answered.

The Edison Institute said it had spent $266,749 in opposing legislation it regarded as harmful to the industry, including the holding company bill.

Black's statement was made, as he called John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light Company, to the stand.

Carpenter explained his company had been a unit of the Electric Bond and Share system for about 20 years.

Asked by Black if that was controlled by J. P. Morgan and Co., Carpenter said he did not know.

Carpenter, gray-haired man, said he also was vice-president of the Electric Service Company, president of the New Mexico Electric Service Company; president of the Texas Public Utilities Corporation; chairman of the Gulf States Security Life Insurance Company; president of the Dallas Railway and Terminal Company, and director of the St. Louis and S. AFTERNOON TEA

When invited to a tea
I have never learned to be Quite at ease.
I have never learned to stand
With a cup and plate in hand
Nibbling cheese.

I have not the jaunty air
Of the men I notice there
Who can sup
Juggling knife and fork and spoon
Plate and cup and macaroon,
Standing up.

I have never learned to chat
Quite so gracefully as that When I eat.
Nellie long has understood
I am never any good
On my feet.

Picking salad from a plate
By the mantel piece I hate,
And detest
Every drop of mayonnaise
Dripping from the fork I raise
On my vest.

I have learned to handle stuff
At the table well enough,
And can be Fairly graceful eating soup:
But I'm still an awkward goop
At a tea.

MAKING GOOD SWIMMERS

One of the fine recreational and health developments of recent years has been the rapid spread of swimming instruction. Here is an example. In one city last summer, 3,500 children were taught to swim through the co-operation of the Board of Education and a local newspaper. An Ima Fish club was sponsored by the paper several years ago.

Kids became members by learning to swim ten strokes. City youngsters in increasing numbers have joyously taken full advantage of the opportunity, as last year's total of new swimmers shows.

This year the program is enlarged. Children who have earned Ima Fish but-tions will receive further instructions. They get into the next classification by becoming such competent swimmers that they can jump into water over their own depth, swim 25 feet, turn and swim back to the starting point.

The fun doesn't stop there, either. There will be advance courses for swimmers, and junior and senior life savers. A Water Safety Association has been formed which later on will hold contests participated in by swimmers from other cities.
Cups will be awarded to the most proficient.

No one need scoff and say that the "ole swimmin' hole" did the job with less fuss. Sentimental loyalty to that tradition wouldn't take care of the hordes of city children who need the health and sport of swimming but who have not naturally the opportunity to enjoy them. Protected swimming pools and beaches, with proper instruction in swimming and proper supervision, are services communities owe their young citizens.

UNDESIRABLES IN CUBA

Fifteen Americans, described as "Liberals," had the surprise of their lives

when they entered Cuba for a little private investigation of social and economic conditions.

Their purpose may have been honest and harmless enough. One of the party, a New York playwright, says he was looking for ideas for a Cuban play.

It isn't likely that any of the visitors were interested in overthrowing the Cuban government. Some of them were school teachers. It isn't evident, either, that they intended to defame Cuba. But they were not wanted. Government authorities in Havana held them in prison for 24 hours under armed guard, then shipped them back to New York.

A statement from the Cuban immigration department explained that they were "perturbing elements

who were coming to Cuba

for the sole purpose of causing agitation and altering public order by means of Communistic propaganda."

So it had no choice but to deport them as undesirables.

It is a good example of the state of nerves into which nearly all the nations have got. They are terribly afraid of being harmed by undesirable citizens from other countries. The enemy is nearly always an alien.

Foreigners who before the war would have been ignored or laughed at are now suspected, feared and hated. The world turns more and more, apparently, from internationalism to nationalism. And it isn't clear that any of the nations are better off for their prejudices and enmities.

WAR CHILDREN GROWN UP

Prophecies are not always headed at the time they are made. Such a prophecy was made in 1928 to John Palmer Gavit, a vice president of Survey Associates and one of the editors of the monthly magazine, Survey Graphic.
He was in Germany. Impressed by the strange quiet of German children whom he saw playing in parks and village streets he asked a famous German psychiatrist about them. The psychiatrist explained:

"They bear the marks of inadequate prenatal metabolism of their mothers during the 'starvation period' of the War and the inflation; of insufficient nourishment for themselves; and of the anxiety, uncertainty, hate and fear saturating their home atmosphere."

Then came the doctor's prophecy, which seemed to be an exaggeration, but which has already been fulfilled:

"Not now so much as ten years from now you will see the profound effects of this condition among the German children. Then the warping of their natures by what they have suffered long ago will appear in the resentment which is as yet subconscious. That very unnatural quiet you have noticed is the sign of repression which will have its revenge. I fear that this rising generation of Germany may become a nuisance in the world. And you must remember that all nations which participated in the War also have children more or less subjected to the same kind of conditions.
Ten years from now they will be facing each other as grown people. It will take a long, long time in the world to liquidate these things."

All of which makes one more indictment against war or one more appeal to people with understanding of cause and effect to be tolerant and patient and to strive unceasingly, in the face of terrific obstacles, to heal the world's war sickness.

The subject of his 358-page thesis is reported to be: "Customs and Success-ory Rights of the Peasant Class and the Indivision of Rural Estates in Austria."

It sounds as dull to outsiders as most such theses, but that should not detract from the young man's achievement. A prince who studies political science ought to be an intelligent citizen and, if he gets the chance, a fairly intelligent king.

In this country we hire unemployed men for "public works" and abroad they hire 'em for military service, and often it amounts to the same thing.

Italy Burns With African War Fever." And may get burnt, as she did last time she tackled Abyssinia.

BEAUTY CHATS

IN FIFTEEN MINUTES

TIME OUT FOR BEAUTY
Beauty making is neither complicated nor does it require much time nor money. Miss Forbes tells you the tricks, and today she gives you the time each day it requires.

How much time does it take you each day for beauty treatments? It would be an interesting experiment to clock yourself while you use cold cream, hair tonic and what-not else you have for your good looks. Some women literally spend hours a day on their looks, which is not at all necessary. Some women get through in a scant three minutes of attention. Actually, 15 minutes a day is all you need.

A good way to divide the time is five minutes in the morning, five just before changing your dress for dinner, and five at bedtime. You begin work as soon as you open your eyes, for you do at least half a minute of stretching exercises in bed, a full minute deep breathing by your open window, and another moment for waist-building exercises to keep the abdominal muscles tight. You can then spend nearly a minute soshing the face and the under part of the chin with ice-cold water, and the rest of the time applying foundation cream, powder and the very light makeup you should allow yourself for daytime wear.

The afternoon treatment begins by quick cleansing of the face with oil or very light cream, or a patent liquid cleanser. If your skin is dry, give it a quick rub with a massage cream. Wipe this off at the end of three minutes, and quickly wipe over the face with skin tonic. This gives a perfect foundation for powder. You then spend two minutes applying your powder, rouge, lipstick and perhaps the slightest trace of eyeshadow or mascara. Two minutes is really all you need.

The real treatment is the bedtime one. You cleanse by scrubbing the face with hot water and a lather of soap, rinsing this off with clear hot water. Flesh-building cream is rubbed on to

RELIGION, MINUS MORALITY, A PERIL TO THE PEOPLE *

Trumpet Voice of Amos, First of the Writing Prophets, Echoes Throughout the Land Today—A Common Man's Great Message.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

In this timely lesson we meet the most cribbed from writer of ancient times, a lonely figure whose message is today being echoed by thousands of preachers, professors, reformers and social workers. His little book, written about the end of the eighth century, B. C., is as contemporary as though it were one of the new volumes on social problems at present pouring from the presses. Amos sounds the word for our times, the great truth of social justice.

His was a fresh, original voice. No professional he. When entrenched ecclesiasticism tried to silence him, he spurned the implication that he was one of the trained and complaisant prophets, who lived by the bounty of the king and the people. "I am no prophet, neither am I of the sons of the prophets; but I am a herdsman, and a dresser of sycamore trees."

Better Than A College

Here was an ordinary poor man, a workingman, one of the plain people. He had none of the benefit of the schools and he was no parrot of precedents and formulas. His only diploma was the weight of his words. But he had been trained in a better school. Lonely days and nights in the desert had matured his faculties. He had the close powers of observation which come to the solitary toiler who must depend upon himself. The soft, silent, velvet nights of the wilderness, with their stars of splendor, had spoken to him. Life on the heights (Tekoa, his home, on the edge of the Dead Sea depression, six miles below Bethlehem, is 2790 feet above sea level, and more than twice that distance above the valley into which he daily looked) had given sweep and horizon to his vision. His eye spoke to him from the neighboring uplands of Moab of Jerusalem, Mizraim and Hebrew, as well as from the vocal marts of the near cities to which he wandered afoot. All of his thinking was of the clear, uncomplicated kind which marks the man of lowly calling.

George Adam Smith effectively applies the Amos example to the rest of us:

"He was one of those recruits from common life, by whom religion and the state have at all times been reformed. Springing from the laity, and very often from among the working classes, their freedom from dogmas and routine, as well as from the compromising interests of wealth, rank and party, renders them experts in life to a degree that almost no professional priest, statesman or journalist, however honest or sympathetic, hope to rival. Into politics they bring facts, but into religion they bring vision."

"To see the truth and tell it, to be accurate and brave about the moral facts of our day—to this extent the Vision and the Voice are possible for every one of us."

A Workman Who Could Write
Our day is seeing many authors and artists, without any formal education, springing to the forefront of public attention. Amos, first of the writing prophets of Israel, was one such. To the nobobs of his day he was a despised nobody, a mere workingman, poorly clad, covered by an abeyah, or cloak, that smelled of his sheep and bore traces of the ground on which he often slept beneath the stars. He was a sort of "handy-man" in earning his meager livelihood. Sometimes he tended sheep in the Wilderness of Tekoa; sometimes he pinched sycamore figs (the tree is not to be confused with our sycamore), to hasten their ripening and fertilization, for they were an important item in the poor people's diet; sometimes he travelled afoot to Jerusalem and to Bethlehem, selling his wool or seeking a job. We may scarcely overstate the ordinariness of the man Amos. He had no official standing whatever as a religious teacher. It was easy for Amaziah to order such an uncouth figure out of Bethel.

This unconventional, fearless, forthright speaker of stern and unpalatable truths was not the first of Israel's prophets; heroic figures, like Moses, Samuel, Elijah and Elisha, had preceded him. But he is the first to leave his message in writing. Unlike the professionals of his time, he did not depend upon ecclesiastical bickerings and ravings and transports for his credentials. His utterances could bear the cold and calculating examination of the written word.

No literary style is so effective as plain, straightforward use of common words, which nobody can fail to understand. Many modern writers are too smart; they search the dictionaries for unusual words; they cultivate form more than substance. The whole art of writing is to have something to say, and to be able to say it clearly and comprehensively. Nobody could mistake the meaning of Amos. And his natural adornments of his message were the figures that would readily occur to a workingman, and to a dweller amidst the vast spaces of the open air. His was the salty speech that one hears in workshops and country stores. It had the heights and the horizons, the stars and the seas, of his own experience.

When A Nation Goes "Soft"
Both the northern and southern kingdoms of the Jews had come upon a period of peace and prosperity. The wealthy and the eminent had gone "soft." Luxury, sensuality and all self-indulgence were their main interests. As has been the case with their class in

An authoritative source said the ban on arms shipments would continue in effect at least until the league council had opportunity to consider the Italo-Ethiopian controversy.

The British government will reconsider the question it was learned, should the Geneva efforts to settle the dispute fail.

It was stated that the cabinet had reached a definite decision on what the British government's stand would be in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, but what that decision might be was not immediate revealed.

BELGIUM TO LICENSE SHIPMENTS

BRUSSELS, July 25.—(P)—

Prime Minister Van Zeeland told the foreign affairs committee of the senate today that Belgium had decided today the licensing of arms exports to Ethiopia. He said the government's decision was dictated by practical reasons concerning present circumstances.

French Peace Plans Have Been Completed

PARIS, July 25.—(P)—

France's plans to stave off war between Italy and Ethiopia by using to the utmost the conciliation procedure of the League of Nations were completed today and submitted to the cabinet for approval.

French authorities said Italy has made it plain to them that it has no present intention of quitting

the League, its action depending entirely upon Italy.

French and British diplomats were reported to have suggested to Italy that it forestall League action by raising the case itself

under Article 12 of the covenant, providing for arbitration, rather than let Ethiopia or some other power cite Italy under Article 15.

Political circles said Eden, an ex-minister, said that Anthony

Eden therefore will go to Geneva

for a League of Nations council session about July 31 empowered to announce that Great Britain is ready, if no other alternative can be found, to stand by all its obligations under the league covenant.

As his message developed,

Amos put his fingers upon the rotten spots in the life of the people. To him, as to his Lord, personal unrighteousness as an accompaniment of professional purity, was a stinking sin. So, in burning words that have fired

many a prophet since, he cried out against the sins of the rich and the sufferings of the poor.

He stripped bare the odious evils of his complacent time. In one of his fine figures there is compressed the message which should today ring in every legislative hall, every educational gathering, every newspaper and every church: "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as an ever-flowing stream."

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

The sudden switch of France to the side of Great Britain, at least in support of Britain's desire that Italy should state its full case and aims in Ethiopia to the league, was believed to have led the cabinet to decide on a firmer course than that of a

France at that time snubbed

British efforts to obtain French

France was not expected to approve any action that Mussolini would consider inimical. But it became clear than France has been led to see that if the league covenant fails to settle a "Roman conquest" by Il Duce, it also might fail to restrain any expansion ambitions by Germany toward Austria.
